ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

1. (a) Under the time period assumption, an accountant is required to determine the relevance of each business transaction to specific accounting periods.
 (b) An accounting time period of one year in length is referred to as a fiscal year. A fiscal year that extends from January 1 to December 31 is referred to as a calendar year. Accounting periods of less than one year are called interim periods.
2. The two generally accepted accounting principles that relate to adjusting the accounts are:
 The revenue recognition principle, which states that revenue should be recognized in the accounting period in which services are performed.
 The expense recognition principle, which states that efforts (expenses) be matched with accomplishments (revenues).
3. The law firm should recognize the revenue in April. The revenue recognition principle states that revenue should be recognized in the accounting period in which services are performed.
4. Information presented on an accrual basis is more useful than on a cash basis because it reveals relationships that are likely to be important in predicting future results. To illustrate, under accrual accounting, revenues are recognized when the performance obligation is satisfied so they can be related to the economic environment in which they occur. Trends in revenues are thus more meaningful.
5. Expenses of $4,500 should be deducted from the revenues in April. Under the expense recognition principle efforts (expenses) should be matched with accomplishments (revenues).
6. No, adjusting entries are required by the revenue recognition and expense recognition principles.
7. A trial balance may not contain up-to-date information for financial statements because:
  - (1) Some events are not journalized daily because it is not efficient to do so.
  - (2) The expiration of some costs occurs with the passage of time rather than as a result of daily transactions.
  - (3) Some items may be unrecorded because the transaction data are not yet known.
8. The two categories of adjusting entries are deferrals and accruals. Deferrals consist of prepaid expenses and unearned revenues. Accruals consist of accrued revenues and accrued expenses.
9. In the adjusting entry for a prepaid expense, an expense is debited and an asset is credited.
10. No. Depreciation is the process of allocating the cost of an asset to expense over its useful life in a rational and systematic manner. Depreciation results in the presentation of the book value of the asset, not its fair value.
11. Depreciation expense is an expense account whose normal balance is a debit. This account shows the cost that has expired during the current accounting period. Accumulated depreciation is a contra asset account whose normal balance is a credit. The balance in this account is the depreciation that has been recognized from the date of acquisition to the balance sheet date.

12. Equipment .....	$18,000
Less: Accumulated Depreciation—Equipment .....	6,000	$12,000

13. In the adjusting entry for an unearned revenue, a liability is debited and a revenue is credited.
14. Asset and revenue. An asset would be debited and a revenue would be credited.
15. An expense is debited and a liability is credited in the adjusting entry.
16. Net income was understated $200 because prior to adjustment, revenues are understated by $900 and expenses are understated by $700. The difference in this case is $200 ($900 – $700).
17. The entry is:
- |        |                                  |       |       |
|--------|----------------------------------|-------|-------|
| Jan. 9 | Salaries and Wages Payable ..... | 2,000 |       |
|        | Salaries and Wages Expense ..... | 3,000 |       |
|        | Cash.....                        |       | 5,000 |
18. (a) Accrued revenues. (d) Accrued expenses or prepaid expenses.
 (b) Unearned revenues. (e) Prepaid expenses.
 (c) Accrued expenses. (f) Accrued revenues or unearned revenues.
19. (a) Salaries and Wages Payable. (d) Supplies Expense.
 (b) Accumulated Depreciation. (e) Service Revenue.
 (c) Interest Expense. (f) Service Revenue.
20. Disagree. An adjusting entry affects only one balance sheet account and one income statement account.
21. Financial statements can be prepared from an adjusted trial balance because the balances of all accounts have been adjusted to show the effects of all financial events that have occurred during the accounting period.
- *22. For Supplies Expense (prepaid expense): expenses are overstated and assets are understated. The adjusting entry is:
- |                                  |    |    |
|----------------------------------|----|----|
| Assets (Supplies) .....          | XX |    |
| Expenses (Supplies Expense)..... |    | XX |
- For Rent Revenue (unearned revenues): revenues are overstated and liabilities are understated. The adjusting entry is:
- |  |    |    |
|--|----|----|
| Revenues (Rent Revenue) .....            | XX |    |
| Liabilities (Unearned Rent Revenue)..... |    | XX |
- *23. (a) The primary objective of financial reporting is to provide financial information that is useful to investors and creditors for making decisions about providing capital.
 (b) The fundamental qualitative characteristics are relevance and faithful representation. The enhancing qualities are comparability, consistency, verifiability, timeliness, and understandability.
- *24. Gross is correct. Consistency means using the same accounting principles and accounting methods from period to period within a company. Without consistency in the application of accounting principles, it is difficult to determine whether a company is better off, worse off, or the same from period to period.

- *25. Comparability results when different companies use the same accounting principles. Consistency means using the same accounting principles and methods from year to year within the same company.
- *26. The constraint is the cost constraint. The cost constraint allows accounting standard setters to weigh the cost that companies will incur to provide information against the benefit that financial statement users will gain from having the information available.
- *27. Accounting relies primarily on two measurement principles. Fair value is sometimes used when market price information is readily available. However, in many situations reliable market price information is not available. In these instances, accounting relies on cost as its basis.
- *28. The economic entity assumption states that every economic entity can be separately identified and accounted for. This assumption requires that the activities of the entity be kept separate and distinct from (1) the activities of its owners (the shareholders) and (2) all other economic entities. A shareholder of a company charging personal living costs as expenses of the company is an example of a violation of the economic entity assumption.

DO IT! 3-4

- (a) The net income is determined by adding revenues and subtracting expenses. The net income is computed as follows:

Revenues
Service revenue.....	$11,360
Rent revenue .....	1,100
Total revenues .....	$12,460
Expenses
Salaries and wages expense .....	7,400
Rent expense.....	1,200
Depreciation expense .....	700
Utilities expense.....	410
Supplies expense.....	160
Interest expense.....	40
Total expenses.....	9,910
Net income .....	$ 2,550

- (b) Total assets and liabilities are computed as follows:

Assets
Cash .....	$ 5,360
Accounts receivable .....	480
Prepaid rent.....	720
Supplies .....	920
Equipment .....	$12,000
Less: Accumulated depreciation—
Equipment.....	700
Total assets.....	$18,780
Liabilities
Notes payable.....	$ 4,000
Accounts payable .....	790
Unearned rent revenue .....	400
Salaries and wages payable.....	300
Interest payable.....	40
Total liabilities.....	$ 5,530

- (c) Owner's Capital at June 30, 2014, can be computed in one of two ways. Using the basic accounting equation (Assets = Liabilities + Owner's Equity), we find that total assets are $18,780 and total liabilities are $5,530; therefore, Owner's Equity (Owner's Capital) is $13,250 ($18,780 – $5,530).

Another way to compute the Owner's Capital at June 30, 2012, is as follows:

Owner's capital, April 1 .....		$	-0-
Add: Investments .....	$11,200
Net income .....	2,550		13,750
Less: Drawings .....			500
Owner's capital, June 30 .....			$13,250

SOLUTIONS TO EXERCISES

EXERCISE 3-1

1. True.
2. True.
3. False. Many business transactions affect more than one of these artificial time periods. For example, the purchase of a building affects expenses for many years.
4. True.
5. False. A time period that lasts less than one year, such as monthly or quarterly periods, is called an interim period.
6. False. All calendar years are fiscal years, but not all fiscal years are calendar years. An accounting time period that is one year in length is referred to as a fiscal year. A fiscal year that starts on January 1 and ends on December 31 is a calendar year.

EXERCISE 3-2

- (a) Accrual-basis accounting records the transactions that change a company's financial statements in the periods in which the events occur rather than in the periods in which the company receives or pays cash. Information presented on an accrual basis is useful because it reveals relationships that are likely to be important in predicting future results. Conversely, under cash-basis accounting, revenue is recorded only when cash is received, and an expense is recognized only when cash is paid. As a result, the cash basis of accounting often leads to misleading financial statements.
- (b) Politicians might desire a cash-basis accounting system over an accrual-basis system because if an accrual-accounting system is used, it could mean that billions in government liabilities presently unrecorded would have to be reported in the federal budget immediately. The recognition of these additional liabilities would make the deficit even worse. This is not what politicians would like to see and be held responsible for.

(c) Dear Senator,

It is my understanding, after having taken a beginning course in accounting principles, that the Federal government uses a cash-basis system rather than an accrual-basis accounting system.

I am shocked at such a practice! There must be billions of dollars of liabilities hidden in many contracts that have not been recorded yet for the mere reason that they haven't been paid yet. I realize that the deficit would dramatically increase if we were to implement an accrual system, but in all fairness, we citizens should be given a more accurate picture of what our government is up to.

Sincerely,

CONCERNED STUDENT

*EXERCISE 3-18

- (a)   2   Going concern assumption
- (b)   6   Economic entity assumption
- (c)   3   Monetary unit assumption
- (d)   4   Time period assumption
- (e)   5   Historical cost principle
- (f)   1   Full disclosure principle

*EXERCISE 3-19

- (a) This is a violation of the historical cost principle. The inventory was written up to its fair value when it should have remained at cost.
- (b) This is a violation of the economic entity assumption. The treatment of the transaction treats Jay Rosman and Rosman Co. as one entity when they are two separate entities. Salaries and Wages Expense should have been debited for the purchase of the truck.
- (c) This is a violation of the time period assumption. This assumption states that the economic life of a business can be divided into artificial time periods (months, quarters, or a year). By adding two more weeks to the year, Rosman Co. would be misleading financial statement readers. In addition, 2014 results would not be comparable to previous years' results. The company should use a 52 week year.

*EXERCISE 3-20

- 1. Comparability
- 2. Going concern assumption
- 3. Materiality
- 4. Full disclosure principle
- 5. Time period assumption
- 6. Relevance
- 7. Historical cost principle
- 8. Consistency
- 9. Economic entity assumption
- 10. Faithful representation
- 11. Monetary unit assumption
- 12. Expense recognition principle

*EXERCISE 3-21

- (a) The primary objective of financial reporting is to provide financial information that is useful to investors and creditors for making decisions about providing capital. Since Net Nanny's shares appear to be actively traded, investors must be capable of using the information made available by Net Nanny to make decisions about the company.
- (b) The investors must feel as if the company will show earnings in the future. They must recognize that information relevant to their investment choice is indicated by more than Net Nanny's net income.
- (c) The change from Canadian dollars to U.S. dollars for reporting purposes should make Net Nanny more comparable with companies traded on U.S. stock exchanges.

*EXERCISE 3-22

- (a) Accounting information is the compilation and presentation of financial information for a company. It provides information in the form of financial statements and additional disclosures that is useful for decision making.

The accounting rules and practices that have substantial authoritative support and are recognized as a general guide for financial reporting purposes are referred to as international financial reporting standards (IFRS). The biotechnology company that employs Ana will follow IFRS to report its assets, liabilities, equity, revenues, and expenses as it prepares financial statements.

- (b) Ana is correct in her understanding that the low success rate for new biotech products will be a cause of concern for investors. Her suggestion that detailed scientific findings be reported to prospective investors might offset some of their concerns but it probably won't conform to the qualitative characteristics of accounting information.

These characteristics consist of relevance, faithful representation, comparability, and consistency, verifiability, timeliness, and understandability. They apply to accounting information rather than the scientific findings that Ana wants to include.

- (a) Items that may result in adjusting entries for prepayments are:
1. Other current assets (per balance sheet).
  2. Property, plant and equipment, net (per balance sheet).
  3. Acquired intangible assets, net (per balance sheet)—amortization is similar to depreciation (explained later in Chapter 10).
- (b) Accrual adjusting entries were probably made for accounts payable accrued expenses, and income taxes payable.
- (c) Apple's net income increased substantially since 2009. Its net income increased by $5,778 million from 2009 to 2010, and by $11,909 million from 2010 to 2011. Apple's net income more than tripled from 2009 to 2011.

(b) Increase (decrease) in selling, general, and administrative expenses from 2010 to 2011.	$ 2,331,000,000	$ 4,282,000,000
(c) Increase (decrease) in long-term debt (obligations) from 2010 to 2011.	$ 569,000,000	$ (385,000,000)
(d) Increase (decrease) in net income from 2010 to 2011.	$ 124,000,000	$(3,225,000,000)
(e) Increase (decrease) in cash and cash equivalents from 2010 to 2011.	$(1,876,000,000)	$4,286,000,000

	Amazon	Wal-mart
(a) Increase (decrease) in interest expense, from 2009 to 2011.	$31,000,000	$(19,000,000)
(b) Increase (decrease) in net income from 2009 to 2011.	$ (271,000,000)	$ 1,504,000,000
(c) Increase (decrease) in cash from operations from 2010 to 2011.	$408,000,000	$ 612,000,000

2. Cash flow from operations is the difference between cash receipts from revenues and cash payments for expenses (see chapter 1). Depreciation expense is a major reason why cash flow from operations and net income are different for these two companies. Depreciation expense reduces a company's net income, but does not affect cash flow from operations since it's a noncash expense. Other reasons would include changes in accounts receivable, inventory, and accounts payable.

Answers will vary depending on the company and article chosen by the student.

- (a) Many large companies, big accounting firms, and accounting standard setters tend to favor a switch to IFRS because they believe that global accounting standards would save companies money by consolidating their bookkeeping. They also believe it would make it easier to raise capital around the world. In addition, investors would have less trouble comparing companies from different countries. They also feel that having international accounting standards would lead to an improvement in the enforcement of securities laws.
- (b) Many small companies are opposed to switching to IFRS because (1) they say that the switch would be very costly, and (2) because they don't have operations outside of the U.S., so they see any benefit to their company of using international standards.
- (c) It has been suggested that IFRS lacks standards that are specific to utility companies that U.S. GAAP contains.
- (d) Condorsement (a word invented by the SEC) represents a combination of convergence and endorsement. Under condorsement, U.S. standard setters would continue to work with international standard setters to try to reduce differences in standards. In addition, as new international standards are issued, U.S. standard setters would review those standards and consider whether to endorse them by absorbing them into U.S. GAAP.

- (b) The generally accepted accounting principles pertaining to the income statement that were not recognized by Amaya were the revenue recognition principle and the expense recognition principle. The revenue recognition principle states that revenue is recognized when the performance obligation is satisfied. The $15,000 for summer rentals has not been performed and, therefore, should not be reported in income for the quarter ended March 31. The expense recognition principle dictates that efforts (expenses) be matched with accomplishments (revenues) whenever it is reasonable and practicable to do so. This means that the expenses should include amounts incurred in March but not paid until April. The difference in expenses was $7,750 ($48,450 – $40,700). The overstatement of revenues ($15,000) plus the understatement of expenses ($7,750) equals the difference in reported income of $22,750 ($49,300 – $26,550).

Dear Ms. Hall:

Upon reviewing the accounts of your company at the end of the year, I discovered that adjusting entries were not made.

Adjusting entries are made at the end of the accounting period to ensure that the revenue recognition and expense recognition principles required under generally accepted accounting principles are followed. The use of adjusting entries makes it possible to report on the balance sheet the appropriate assets, liabilities, and owner's equity at the statement date and to report on the income statement the proper net income (or loss) for the year.

Adjusting entries are needed because the trial balance may not contain an up-to-date and complete record of transactions and events for the following reasons:

1. Some events are not journalized daily because it is not efficient to do so. Examples are the use of supplies and the earning of wages by employees.
2. The expiration of some costs is not journalized during the accounting period because these costs expire with the passage of time rather than as a result of recurring daily transactions. Examples of such costs are building and equipment depreciation, rent, and insurance.
3. Some expenses, such as the cost of utility service and property taxes, may be unrecorded because the bills for the costs have not been received.

There are four types of adjusting entries:

1. Prepaid expenses—expenses paid in cash and recorded as assets before they are used or consumed.
2. Unearned revenues—revenues received in cash and recorded as liabilities before they are earned.

- 3. Accrued revenues—revenues earned but not yet received in cash or recorded.
- 4. Accrued expenses—expenses incurred but not yet paid in cash or recorded.

I will be happy to answer any questions you may have on adjusting entries.

- (a) The stakeholders in this situation are:
- ▶ Melissa Ray, controller.
  - ▶ The president of Kellner Company.
  - ▶ Kellner Company stockholders.
- (b) 1. It is unethical for the president to place pressure on Melissa to misstate net income by requesting her to prepare incorrect adjusting entries.
2. It is customary for adjusting entries to be dated as of the balance sheet date although the entries are prepared at a later date. Melissa did nothing unethical by dating the adjusting entries December 31.
- (c) Melissa can accrue revenues and defer expenses through the preparation of adjusting entries and be ethical so long as the entries reflect economic reality. Intentionally misrepresenting the company's financial condition and its results of operations is unethical (it is also illegal).

We address the issue of contingent liabilities in greater detail in Chapter 11. Our primary interest in this exercise is to engage students in a discussion regarding the general nature of the financial statement elements (assets, liabilities, equity, revenues and expenses).

- (a) By taking out the bank loan your friend has incurred a liability. You do not have a liability unless your friend defaults, or unless it becomes clear that he will default. The loan application may, however, require you to disclose any guarantees that you have signed, since they represent potential liabilities.
- (b) Accounting standards have specific requirements regarding accounting for situations where there is uncertainty regarding whether a liability has been incurred. Those standards require an evaluation of the probability of an amount being owed. Without going into detail regarding those standards, the basic idea is that if it is probable that you will owe money, then you should accrue a liability. If it is not probable, but it is possible that you will owe money, then you should disclose facts regarding the situation. The most important point is that this event has the potential to materially impact your finances, and therefore you have a responsibility to disclose it to the bank in some form.
- (c) Losing your job would not create a financial liability, although it would most certainly reduce your revenues. You are obviously concerned that you might lose your job, but you don't have specific information that would suggest that it will happen. Therefore, you probably don't have an obligation to disclose this information to the bank. However, unless you are relatively certain that you would be able to find suitable employment relatively quickly, you might want to wait until your job situation has stabilized before pursuing a loan of this size.

The balance sheet should provide a fair representation of what a company owns and what it owes. If significant obligations of the company are not reported on the balance sheet, the company's net worth (its equity) will be overstated. While it is true that it is not possible to estimate the exact amount of future environmental cleanup costs, it is becoming clear that companies will be held accountable.

Therefore, it doesn't seem reasonable to not accrue for environmental costs. Recognition of these liabilities provides a more accurate picture of the company's financial position. It also has the potential to improve the environment. As companies are forced to report these amounts on their financial statements they will start to look for more effective and efficient means to reduce toxic waste, and therefore reduce their costs.

- (a) Revenue earned by an entity from its direct distribution, exploitation, or licensing of a film, before deduction for any of the entity's direct costs of distribution. For markets and territories in which an entity's fully or jointly-owned films are distributed by third parties, revenue is the net amounts payable to the entity by third party distributors. Revenue is reduced by appropriate allowances, estimated returns, price concessions, or similar adjustments, as applicable.
- (b) Compensation is reciprocal transfers of cash or other assets in exchange for services performed.

IFRS3-1

GAAP and IFRS both require companies to record transactions (and revenues) in the period in which events occur. Both prohibit cash-basis accounting and both apply the time period assumption.

GAAP has more than 100 rules dealing with revenue recognition while IFRS uses a single standard. Under IFRS, revenue recognition is based on the probability that the economic benefits associated with the transaction will flow to the company and the revenues and costs must be capable of being measured reliably. GAAP states that revenue is recognized in the accounting period in which the performance obligation is satisfied.

IFRS3-2

IFRS uses the term income to encompass both revenues and gains. GAAP defines income as the net difference between revenues and expenses. In addition, GAAP classifies revenues as the economic benefit that arises from an entity's normal operating activities and gains as the benefits associated with activities outside the normal sales of goods and services.

Under IFRS, expenses include both those costs incurred in the normal course of operations and losses that are not part of normal operations. In contrast, GAAP classifies costs associated with activities outside the normal sales of goods and services as losses.

- (a) Note 3.7 indicates that revenue is measured as the fair value of consideration received or receivable by the Group for goods supplied net of sales rebates and excluding VAT and trade discounts.
- (b) Note 3.7 states that revenue from the sale of goods is recognized when the Group has transferred to the buyer the significant risks and rewards of ownership of the goods.
- (c) Zetar Plc could have adjustments for prepayments such as:
Depreciation expense, Amortisation of intangible assets, and Deferred tax assets.
- (d) Zetar Plc could have adjustments for accruals such as:
Finance costs (interest expense), Tax liabilities, and Trade and other payables.
